Application deadline: 18 October 2019

Vacation scholars must be currently enrolled in an Australian undergraduate degree and have completed at least one year of discipline specific study by November. Scholars must be continuing enrolment during the placement period; therefore, this excludes students who will be completing third year at the end of this current semester (even if you intend to commence Honours next year).

Scholars may be required to submit a short report at the conclusion of their placement that may be used by the Institute for future promotions.

The Institute is committed to offering opportunities to people from a range of different backgrounds and varied life experiences. We know that diversity of thought drives innovation and leads to better scientific outcomes.
